Presidency Selects Dr. Armin Hill To Head Physical Science College

Dr. Armin J. Hill, of Altadena, Calif., president of the Motion Picture Research Council, has been appointed dean of the college of physical and engineering sciences at Brigham Young University, it was announced today by President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Dr Hill will assume his new duties in September. He succeeds Dr. Harvey Fletcher, who has requested to return to teaching and research, President Wilkinson said.

ACTING DEAN

During the summer months Dr. Kenneth Bullock, professor of geology, is serving as acting dean of the college.

In his work with the Motion Picture Research Council Dr. Hill has aided in developing several new types of light sources, including the new radiofrequency lamp, now in manufacture. He also has been active in the development of improved projection equipment for use in studios and was instrumental in design of the most powerful projector ever built, which was used in the production of the "Ten Commandments."

The group also has improved projection screens, both for studio and theatre use.

IMPROVED PROJECTION

A fellow in the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers, Dr. Hill has been honored by that group for work in connection with three-dimensional motion picture photography. He was honored also for improvement of projection quality of the new wide-screen motion picture processes.

He holds four degrees, the bachelor of science and master of science in electrical engineering from Montana State College, and the master of science and Ph.D. degree in physics from California Institute of Technology. He also has specialized in mathematics and astrophysics, although his present interest is optical engineering.

BRINGS ELECTRICITY

Before entering the motion picture industry, he was assistant professor of physics at Montana State College, 1941-1950, and rural electrical engineer for Montana Extension Service and Montana Agricultural Experimental Station, 1936-41, assisting in bringing electricity to more than a third of Montana's farm homes in that time. From 1935 to 1937 he was a teacher at North Dakota School of Forestry.

EXTENSIVE WRITER

Dr. Hill has written extensively for the Journal of the Optical Society of America, the Astrophysical Journal, and the Journal of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers. He also has published many pamphlets in relation to extension service.

He is a member of the Optical Society of America and former president of the Southern California Chapter, of the Acoustical Society of America; Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi and Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic societies.

FORMER BISHOP

Active in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, he was bishop of Pasadena Ward, 1950 to 1956, and is a member of the High Council of Pasadena Stake. He was chairman of the Bishop's Council of Pasadena Stake, 1954-56, and has been an instructor in Pasadena Institute since 1953.

Concerts Scheduled Today by Manton

Raymond Manton, veteran tenor of the San Francisco Opera Company, will give two concerts for music enthusiasts Thursday.

According to Dean Herald R. Clark, lyceum head, Manton will give two concerts Thursday in the Smith Auditorium. First will be at 9:45 a.m. for student body assembly, the other at 8:15 p.m.

Scheduled for assembly will be selections by Handel, De Lucia, Beethoven and Schumann, among others, including "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" by Kerby-Forrest, M. Appel-Brown, Martha by Flotow, and "Love Will Find Out the Way" by Edmunds.

For the evening performance, Manton will repeat selections "From the Song Cycle Dichterliebe" (Poet's Love)" by Schumann, in addition to "We Sing to Him" and "Strin the Vlol" by Purcell, "O Image Angel-Like and Fair" by Mozart, "Ingemisco" (from "A Requiem Mass") by Verdi, and "Vow Scenes from Faust" by Rubinstein, among several other selections.

Oboist Melvin Kaplan, then only 18 years old, founded the organization and directed its activities during the early years. Meeting together with other soloists for evenings of chamber music led Kaplan to suggest they become a permanent concert group.

Because a wind chamber ensemble was virtually unknown to the American public, at that time, special music had to be found. Libraries and contemporary musicians provided much material and today the quintet has a repertoire of more than 400 original works.

Members of the group include Martin Orensein, flute; Charles Russo, clarinet; Morris Newman, bassoon; Robert Cecil, French horn and Kaplan.

Program will include selections from "Bläserquintet Opus 88, No. 1" by Anton Reicha, "Quintette en Forme de Chorus" by Ville-Lobos, "Quartet in F Major" by Rossini, "Pastorale for Quintet of Winds" by Vincent Persichetti, and "Trois Pieces Breves" by Ibert.

New Musical Score Finished As Cumorah Pageant Readies

Complete new musical score will highlight the 130th anniversary of the Hill Cumorah Pageant to be held at Palmyra, New York, August 1, 2 and 3.

Dr. Lee Gates, dean of the music faculty at Brigham Young University has written the music. Pageant aficionados and music connoisseurs are awaiting with keen anticipation the introduction of the score.

It was at the invitation of Dr. Harold I. Hansen, chairman of the department of speech and dramatic arts, also director of the pageant, that Dr. Gates began the massive work some 3½ years ago.

Included in the score are 15 original movements, a trumpet fanfare and three Mormon hymns. Dr Gates describes the composition as "at once contemporary and lyric."

To copy the parts for the singers and the players in time for rehearsals and recording, Dr. Gates obtained the assistance of 20 expert copyists at BYU who, in the closing days of their stint, were working as long as 18 hours a day. The directors copy covers 275 full score pages.

HOLDS DOCTORATE

Dr. Gates holds doctorate in music from the Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester. He is noted for his work for the Utah Centennial production, "Promised Valley," in 1947; "Choral Movement — Joy," for chorus and orchestra, and "Camelot," a prize-winning tone poem.

SUPREME TASK

His is the supreme task of blending the acting, the speaking, the music and dancing and lighting into one dramatic unity.

Out of the some 600 Mormons in the pageant, 115 students from BYU are included. They will journey to Palmyra by chartered bus.

Doreen Kurr Recital Set

Senior recital of Doreen Kurr, sophomore, originally scheduled for last week, will be presented 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Smith Banquet Hall. She is a student of Professor Norman Gulbrandsen.

Program will include compositions by Bach, Franck, Mozart and Faure. Also included will be "I Hate Music" by Leonard Bernstein and works by Benjamin Britten, Carpenter and Tchaikovsky.

Miss Kurr will be assisted by John Lile, who will play "Prelude and Fugue in C Minor" by Bach and "G Minor Rhapsodie" by Brahms, as piano solos.

Chicken Fry Slated For Friday Night

Plans for the annual summer chicken fry and outing are continuing, according to Lee Miller, chairman of the event.

Fried chicken will be served on the east lawn of the Smith Building at 6:45 p.m., Friday. A session of activities with a program featuring award winners of last week's talent show will start at 5 p.m.

Dancing will begin in the Social Hall at 8 p.m. and social dancing is planned for the remainder of the evening.

Students will be admitted to the affair on their activity cards. Wives and husbands of students will be admitted for a 90 cent charge for the activities and dinner.

Assembly Will Feature 'Summer Daze' Theme

"Portraits of a Summer Daze" is the theme chosen for the second student assembly to be held Tuesday, Aug. 2, according to Gwena Rickie, assembly chairman and director.

Centralized around an art teacher, his students and their paintings, this scene will leave the audience with an additional love for the summer season.

Show talent for the assembly has been chosen from the faculty and students. Which component will be received from music, dance and skits for those who attend.

Dick Ballou's Orchestra Featured at Aug. Dance

Dick Ballou and his 10 piece M's Men orchestra will be featured at the only semi-formal dance of summer school scheduled to be held August 2 in the Smith Family Living Center.

Tickets will go on sale today and tomorrow at 75 cents per couple. Dress for the dance will be semi-formal.

...ODWIND WONDERS—First appearance of New Art Wind ...intet is scheduled for Monday at 8:15 a.m. ...rham. Group pioneered wind ensemble chamber music in U.S.

RISING STANDARDS

The recent announcement that Brigham Young University will give Ph.D. degrees by 1960 marked a milestone in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saint's educational program

Many persons have argued pro and con as to whether BYU is academically strong enough to award such degrees. In order to find out, let's take a look at BYU's record since 1950-51.

CATALOG REQUIREMENTS

According to BYU's 1950-51 catalog, the only requirements necessary to enter BYU was a high school diploma. In this year's 1957-58 catalog the same requirements to enter BYU are listed, with the added stipulation, applicants of low scholarship may be denied admission to BYU.

BYU had five colleges in 1950-51 teaching a total of 36 subjects. There are now nine colleges at BYU with 56 courses of study listed.

In the past seven years, the studentbody has doubled it's size from 4,500 to 9,000. The physical plant has also grown with the studentbody. During this seven year period, 32 major buildings have been constructed on BYU campus

To returning missionaries and service men it becomes quite evident that a conscious effort has been made to upgrade the quality of classwork which is now required at BYU.

QUALITY NOT QUANTITY

In addition to improving the quality of class work now required by BYU students, the administration has changed graduation requirements, so that students must now incorporate a wider range of courses in their studies. This change provides a deeper educational scope for the BYU graduate.

An English proficiency examination is now required of all students entering their junior year. Persons completed graduate from BYU unless they pass this exam, or take a special remedial course to correct their dificiencies.

EDUCATORS

The 1950-51 catalog shows BYU with 226 educators, 36 percent holding the bachelor degree, 44 percent holding the master degree, and 20 percent attaining PhD. degrees.

This year's 1957-58 catalog lists 423 BYU educators; 14 percent having bachelors degrees, 43 percent having master degrees and 43 percent gaining doctorate degrees.

In connection with teaching and research, a faculty evaluation program has been initiated at BYU. This program is designed to help educators and researchers improve the quality of their work.

BYU IS READY

It can be seen by examining these opinions and facts that BYU is very ready ready to award the Ph.D. Degree. Certainly there are some drawbacks to BYU's present system. But with effort and the planning these problems can and will be ironed out.

BYU is now the largest church-owned university in the United States. With the offering of a Ph.D. program BYU is now in line to become one of the largest and finest universities in the world. All BYU needs to forge ahead is the complete support of L.D.S. membership.

TOO MUCH PROGRESS?

Brigham Young University has greatly improved its academic standards in the past several years, but in doing so, many of the small school qualities have been lost.

The magic something called the Spirit of the Y is virtually unknown on campus today, since HBM gave everyone a number instead of a name.

STUDENTS UNWANTED

Large studentbodies bring some students the feeling of being unwanted or unknown. This has finally happened at BYU, and it is becoming increasingly difficult for students to find places for themselves.

At one time faculty members and department chairmen took a real interest in their students—there was no high pressure at BYU. New classwork and tests have become a high-pressured operation, and in some departments, chairmen don't even know the names of their students.

DOG GRADUATES

One western university graduated a dog that a fraternity attended classes for, because there were too many students to keep track of each one. It may not be long before this can happen at BYU, though is is sincerely hoped it never will.

By taking stock of the university and its organizational functions, administrators can remedy many of these social problems. Good internal relations are of first importance and it is felt that BYU needs to improve its board of trustee-administration-faculty student relationships.

INTEREST NEEDED

More time and planning need to be taken with individual student problems. Faculty members should take a more personal interest in their students, with last minute "quick-thought-jotting" sessions.

The administration should have its hand placed more tightly on the pulse of the studentbody, to a keener insight to student needs and wants.

Backbone of BYU's Honor System is the faculty approach. How can this program possibly work when many faculty members are not themselves 100 percent behind it?

BYU has improved academically, but intersocial relationships have not grown with it. If anything, they have regressed. There is a responsibility to be aware of these problems and correct them in the best interest of progression.

Dear Editor,

"Start or finish"

I'm not a chronic complainer, but after reading in last week's paper that one of your editors wants some kind (any kind) of interest shown in campus activities—even to the extent of writing you—I will admit that there is a problem which is giving a lot of students serious disturbment.

For we who expect to graduate in August, we, upon finding "not clear" written on our graduation summery report, went to the registrar's office to see what is "not clear."

There we were told they have no record of our having qualified to enter the Y, and so, before we can graduate within the month, we must first take all of the college entrance exams. A full day of tests to see if we are qualified to enter BYU.

I suggested to the kind lady (who ran back and forth between Mrs Spencer and myself) that inasmuch as the former regime (Mr. Hayes Fund I entered as a freshman in 1946), received sufficiqnt credentials to verify my entrance qualifications, certainly it would seem silly and ridiculous for me to take these exams.

I cannot afford to be responsible for records lost, or made obsolete, by new personnel in the Registrar's office, and since the office assumed their ruling was silly and ridiculous, I politely declined to take the entrance exams over again

They, just as politely, informed me—that, though I have studied for 11 years, and though I will be the only support for eight people, I cannot graduate from Brigham Young University. Indeed! A CHURCH of Jesus Christ) SCHOOL! Silly and ridiculous!

SCRIBBLIN'

Some oldtime radio men were talking one June night. One recalled the June night a tower was hit by lightning and half the transmitter components burned up.

Among inquiring phone calls was one from a little old lady who asked, "When will my polka program be on?" The announcer replied, "But, ma'am, we just got hit by lightning and we're off the air."

The sweet voice on the other end insisted, "I don't care about all that. I just want my polka program."

Truly interesting things happen. "pop" music is the surge to revive the oldies with a vengeance. Pat Boone's "Love Letters In the Sand" hit the charts for 10 or 12 weeks and continuing to prevalent teenage belief, this is not a new one.

My little book of top tunes for the past 40 years points out that this tune was published way back in 1930.

According to Kay Kyser (What! Never heard of him? Well, S.S. Percent of all American public still like music with a melody." Bing Crosby adds, "There is much to be said about the influence of popular music on public taste, morals, and ideals, and why anyone wants to hearing these dirty hardly achieves a salutary result. It's just not too good."

Just thought maybe given some personal opinions of a couple of nice guys who have and are making themselves a dollar here and there in popular music.

Dorms Finished By Autumn '58

Autumn 1958 occupancy is expected in the new men's residence halls now under construction at Brigham Young University, first permanent housing for men since completion of Allen Hall in 1938.

Construction of the six buildings north of Cougar Stadium, a $5,500,000 project, is the largest single building project in BYU history.

EXCAVATION COMPLETE

Excavation work is complete and steel girders are in place, with concrete roof and floor slabs being poured at the rate of 350-400 yards a day. According to Joyce W. Tippetts, campus planning and development director, slabs should be in place by mid-September.

All roof and floor slabs will be poured on the ground and attached to lifting collars on the steel girders, first application of a new technique in the area. When the concrete has cured for three weeks, floors will be lifted into place by huge hydraulic jacks and welded into place.

SLABS POURED

Roof, third floor, second floor and ground floor slabs will be poured in place before lifting begins. Tippetts said this type of construction is much faster than conventional building.

Estimated total cost includes landscaping, furnishings, decorating and utilities, as well as actual construction of the six units—a central structure with five dorm-type residences

1170 ACCOMMODATIONS

Accommodations will be available for 1170 men and two large dining rooms will serve three meals a day. Buildings are of contemporary design, harmonizing with other recent structures on campus. Brickwork will be of a light shade and extensive use will be made of window wall construction.

Large living rooms, reception areas, television rooms and cloak rooms will be included in the main building, as well as a snack bar, administrative offices, reception desk and post office.

Annual Publishe By BYU Air Cadet

Brigham Young Universi ROTC detachment will be distributing to the cadets their yearbook early next week.

Editing of the book was under the direction of the 51 cadets and they sponsored their own book. The books have been printed by the BYU Press and is now in the process of being bound in Salt Lake City

"Contrails" is the title of the yearbook and the cover, which has been done by the four-color process enclosed the 92 pages which hold the individual and group pictures of all the members of the detachment and the history of its activities.

Editor-in-chief for the annual was David K. Hart, senior from Boise, Idaho.

It is believed that this is the first publication of a yearbook to be published by the ROTC detachments in the United States.

BYU Security Chief Reminds Students Of Traffic Rules

Captain Leonard E. Christensen, Brigham Young University security officer, has reminded students that all automobiles driven by students in the vicinity of Provo must be registered with the BYU Traffic Department.

If the car is parked on campus, the University charges $5 per year parking fee. The campus speed limit by state law is 20 miles an hour, and students may park only in desgnated areas. Grades of violators are withheld until all fines are paid.

By special provision with the State of Utah, out-of-state students may retain their license plates and obtain a windshield sticker by presenting to the State Tax Commission Office in Provo, 102 City and County Building, certification from the Registrar that the student is properly enrolled. However a Utah driver's permit is required within 60 days.

MAN ABOUT CAMPUS—Francis Boyer poses at controls of public address system in Smith Building. Sound expert Boyer covers campus sound systems and most general work is on the go from one location to another to set up maze of wire paraphernalia (Photo by Bill Walton)

Boyer 'Man About Campus'

Sound Expert Finds Job At BYU Offers Challenge

By Sonya Ward
Summer Universe Writer

A job well done is the goal of Brigham Young University's "hearing aid," Francis Boyer. Serving as head of the public address department, an auxiliary of the campus physical plant, Boyer has done an outstanding work in his 11 years in this position.

His major responsibility, that of the design, installation, and operation of the public address system on campus is a full-time job, but he also does sound work for the motion picture department, handles the campus bell and clock system and maintains all other sound equipment on campus.

PHYSICS STUDENT

Boyer first came to BYU in 1946 to study physics and math, and was later employed in public address work. He studied radio engineering, served in the service two times, went on a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and was issued a first class radio telephone operator's license from the FCC before coming to BYU.

The intricate public address system in the Smith Fieldhouse, Social Hall, College Hall, Smith Family Living Center, McKay Building and physical plant department are a far cry from the very simple system that was in the Smith Auditorium when Boyer first came.

REGULAR HOURS

When asked what hours his job entails he answered, "Quite regular hours - 9 a.m. to midnight." Knocking on wood, Boyer added that so far there have been no major failures, although some "real toughies" have confronted him.

Fine graduation exercises which featured Cecil B DeMille as speaker was a big "trainload" for him, since five telephone lines from the Smith Auditorium to the Fieldhouse were used simultaneously for the event.

The system in the Fieldhouse fed KSL-TV, which fed KSL radio. Another mike fed the motion picture arrangements, while still another went to the Smith Building for a school reference file recording. Audio-visual aids department was fed over another line, as were KO-VO and KEYY, local radio stations.

MINOR SERVICE

Among the minor services offered by the public address department, which is utilized largely by the music department, is the library of reference recordings. Over 2,500 hours of original musical programs and talks are on file in Boyer's Smith Building office.

Along with his services for BYU other programs arise that he works on, such as the sound system for the 1957 Panorama.

Band Plans Show For Next Season

Five football half-time shows for the coming season at Brigham Young University are already under preparation for presentation by the 20-member marching band under Dick Billou. In addition, the band will make two trips, one probably to California.

Recently the band was chosen as one of the top two in the nation for its consistent crowd-pleasing. It has made several television appearances, and executive, American Broadcasting Company's Victor Reed, said "Your half-time ceremonies regarded as the most outstanding it has been our privilege to televise this year."

Membership in the band is open to all qualified university students.

Solo majorette for the past three years has been national twirling champion Val Crosland. Drum majors for 1957 will be Mills Crenshaw, Napa, Calif., and John McKollar, Tooele.

Campus Will Host SUP Encampment

Brigham Young University campus will be headquarters for the 1957 national encampment of the Sons of Utah Pioneers, which will take place Aug. 15-18.

Dr. Richard D. Poll, chairman of the history department, will be general chairman of the event with Dr. Stewart L. Grow, political science department head, as vice chairman. The SUP chapters in Utah counties will be hosts for the convention.

Other BYU faculty members serving on committees for the encampment are: registration, Evan M. Craft; meals, housing and parade, Jay B. Hunt; tours, George H. Hansen; publicity, Oliver R. Smith; program, Gordon V. Larson.

Delegates and their wives will be housed in Heritage Halls during the convention and will eat breakfasts and luncheons in the Smith Cafeteria.

FROM THE

SPORTS DESK

By Carolyn Harrison
Summer Sports Editor

Now that the mid-season all-star games are over in the baseball league, sports fans can settle back and watch for the final results.

Unless the Yankees go into a slump, it seems they will be battling for the world championship once more. Just which team of the National League will be their opponents is hard to say. There are several possibilities.

SCORE THROWS

Cleveland's Herb Score has been given doctor's permission ot start throwing the ball but he will probably not be seen in the lineup for a few more weeks.

Gil Hodges of the Brooklyn Dodgers hit his 12th grand slam home run of his baseball career in Thursday's game against the St. Louis Cardinals. This puts Hodges in a three-way tie for the National League's record.

Getting a little closer to home, we find that the old saying, "It's all in the family," is beginning to come true in the case of the Fullmer family. Former champion, Gene Fullmer, now has two younger brothers turning his company in the ring.

RICHFIELD COACH

Dean Larsen, BYU graduate and former All-American basketball player has been named coach of Richfield High School. He toured the United States with the College All-Stars during the year 1954.

Sherrill James, former distance runner for BYU, broke the All-Army record for the six-mile run a few weeks ago with a time of 32.05.

The defending champion, Gookin, set the pace but was overtaken by James in the stretch as the two roared to the finish. James won the race by 10 yards.

A former Spanish Fork High athlete, James holds the Skyline Conference's two-mile record which was equalled by freshman Cougar Gary Griffiths this spring.

As the 1957 football season draws nearer each day, fans of the BYU Cougars should keep their eyes open and focused on the grid-iron men of Coach Kopp. They may be in for a big surprise.

Finale For Fuerstner

Carl Fuerstner, noted pianist and member of the summer faculty at Brigham Young University, will give his final concert of the season Wednesday in the Smith Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Selections will be by French composers.

Program includes "La Daupline," "Menuet," "L'Enharmonique" and "Les Tricotets" by Rameau, "Ballabile" by Ph. Jarnach, "Toccata et Variations" by Honegger and "Leme, Ipanema, Gaves (from Saluades do Brazil) by Milhaud, in honor of the 65th birthdays of the three composers.

Also on the program will be "Nocturne in E Flat, Opus 36" and "Impromptu in F Minor, Opus 31, No 2" by Faure, "Valse-nobles et sentimentales" by Ravel and "Pour le Piano" by Debussy.
